Bugs Don't Bug Us

DPL, Soil & Water District team up to offer bug program

[DEFIANCE] – Next month, learn all about the mighty macroinvertebrates (aquatic insects) inhabiting our local streams and rivers during a special, free presentation in the Defiance Public Library Children's Room.

On April 24 at 5:30 p.m., Wendy Baker, education coordinator for the Defiance County Soil and Water Conservation District, will visit the library, 320 Fort St., Defiance, to give attendees a closer look at what macros are, their amazing adaptations, and what their presence—or absence—means for our water quality.

This free program is geared to families with children in grades pre-K through 6th. No registration is needed.

For more information, contact the library at 419-782-1456.
